Hi, Alexa – I just finished edits to the Armstrong Egg Farms inspection report, after having received feedback from a state inspector (Dat Quach) who accompanied me on the inspection. The report is attached. I also plan to distribute it to Mr. Armstrong, co-owner of the facility, and to the state. I will, of course, need to convert it to a pdf first. But here is your copy in the meantime. FYI, I've contacted our GIS folks, the tribe, and the county, but no one has been able to share any information on nearby waterbodies that could be helpful in determining whether EPA has jurisdiction.

In the absence of that information, the most important details are those pertaining to this facility's eligibility for/compliance with the conditional waiver from permit requirements offered by the water board. See the "areas of concern" section of the report. Let me know if you want to talk any of this over. In the meantime, Ken Greenberg and I plan to meet about this with the San Diego Water Board next Thursday, to discuss next steps.

Thanks,
Kristine
